VALUABLE DOGS POISONED IN OCEAN BEACH

Several valuable dogs were poisoned in Ocean Beach this week. Among those who lost their pets were R. G. Ericsson of Newport avenue, a toy Boston bull; F. A. Henderson, 4926 Santa Monica avenue, a "Husky"; G. F. McKenzie of 4928 Santa Monica avenue, a brindle bull; Roy Sexsmith, of 4973 Santa Monica avenue, water spaniel.

It is a significant coincidence that the four dogs died from eating meat that had been poisoned with strychnine and their deaths occurred in the same block between Bacon and Cable streets. The police are working on several clues leading to the discovery of the fiend.

PARKING SITUATION

It was reported by some of the citizens who attended the council meeting last Monday that the petition to rescind the parking ordinance to allow for one-half hour's parking on Highway was referred to City Manager Rhodes for approval. Inasmuch as it was on Mr. Rhodes' suggestion the petition to this effect was filed, it is expected that we will get some action on this very soon.

SETTLING THE DUST

One of the first and most pressing things that must be done in the original business section of Mission Beach at least, is to have the dusty driveways between the Courts and Placer either made oiled roadway or sprinkled daily by a water wagon. A number of the property owners and residents of the Beach have recently come to the conclusion that the only means of making these driveways passable by holding the dust and sand in a cohesive mass throughout the dry season is by getting the city department to put crude oil on them, working the oil in by means of implements they have for that purpose. Some of the residents have written to the street department, city hall, for relief. If each and every resident of the Beach would do the same, action on this matter would soon be forthcoming.

HOMES AND MORE HOMES

With the constant influx of home-seekers and renters what we need most in Mission Beach is Homes! Homes! Homes!!! The people that are being attracted here from all over the world want first of all homes ready for them. They do not want vacant lots to start in with nor can they take the time and trouble to build. Not finding homes ready for them they will naturally move on to a place that has them ready. The San Diego-California Club spending millions in advertising, is bringing hundreds of thousands of people into the community. Let us keep more of them here by giving them attractive places in which to live. A building campaign cannot be begun too soon. We must build to progress.

Should California Be A Murderer?

CAMPAIGN BEGUN FOR
ABOLITION OF CAPITAL PUN-ISHMENT IN THIS STATE

At 618 B street San Diego, a southern California branch has been established of the "League for the Abolition of Capital Punishment," a national organization campaigning for the abolition of the death penalty in state after state. The League has a membership in 34 states, including California.

With the cooperation of members in every part of California, a state-wide campaign committee is being formed to take charge of the work, and speakers for the abolition of capital punishment will visit the principal cities, including San Diego. These speakers include Warden Lewis E. Lawes, New York; Mrs. Kathleen Norris, California and New York; Clara Dyar, Michigan; John D. Barry, California; and Vivian Pierce, California.

It is stated that those in California who stand for the abolition of the death penalty have a double incentive in organizing actively at this time. In forwarding the campaign and making this state the first western state to take this forward step, they are also assisting the most hopeful eastern campaign, that of New York, and dramatizing the new and determined demand for abolition of capital punishment to both the east and the west.

NOVEL CHRISTENING

OF "THE DALLIANCE"

Mr. and Mrs. John Chambers entertained at a novel party recently in honor of the christening and launching of their new motor boat, "The Dalliance." After a swim in the ocean and a delightful luncheon served at the home of the host and hostess, the guests all adjourned to the dock on the bay where the boat was moored. The christening ceremonies, led by Mrs. Jean Rutherford Saye of Kansas City, the charming house guest of Dr. and Mrs. James Lee Belcher, and little Miss Florence McNall, who broke the flower-bedecked bottle on the bow, were most effective.

Mrs. Saye, as toast mistress, stepped into the boat and presented to the surprised owners, who were seated there, a clever and original toast, at the conclusion of which a large flag and a beautiful banner with the word "Dalliance" thereon, the gift of the guests, were unfurled and presented to Mr. and Mrs. Chambers. After these christening ceremonies the guests enjoyed a cruise around the bay, after which they adjourned to the Chambers' home for dinner and an evening of cards.

Mrs. Saye's toast was as follows:

Little boat
As you go afloat
I christen you
With heaven's dew,
Dipped from the ocean blue,
May you always be true
To your valiant crew.

Friends
This is our chance
To salute the "Dalliance,"
While we're all so happy
Come, let's make it snappy.
(Guest join in)

Rah! Rah! Rah!
This is our chance
We salute the "Dalliance"
Ho! Ho! Hum!
Oh! What fun!
Hay! Hay! Hay!
Dilly dally, dilly dally, round
the Bay.
Dilly dally, dilly dally, round

IS SPECIALIZING IN THE SALE

For something sweet and something smart, perfumed flowers all prettily boxed in combination with a bottle of Palmer's "Master" perfume form the latest novelty introduced at Kraft's Drug Store on Newport avenue at Bacon street. BOOSTER PROGRAM BY

FOR WEEK OF AUG. 2-7

Simultaneous with the launching of the huge San Diego-California Club campaign at a banquet given the citizens of San Diego by Claus Spreckels last Monday night at which more than $50,000 was subscribed for community advertising purposes, the Junior Chamber of Commerce announced a week of inventory for the city to be known as "San Diego week," August 2 to 7.

Three parades, a naval revue, a harbor and zoo day, entertainment and concerts have been planned to give the city one of the busiest weeks in its history.

"Selling San Diego and the county to San Diegans" is the purpose of the week in the words of George Thompson, president of the Junior Chamber. "We are encouraging every citizen to take a personal inventory of his own town and county so that he will be able to supplement the work of the senior chamber of commerce in telling the world that San Diego is the magic city of today with a brilliant metropolitan future."

An official "Miss San Diego" will be selected Sunday afternoon, Aug. 1, at Mission Beach from a list of candidates from all over the county. All of the outlying districts of the city as well as the county towns have been invited to enter at least one girl with beauty, charm and personality to contest for the title. Contestants for "Miss San Diego" must be entered at Mission Beach not later than Saturday of this week. Information on this contest can be obtained from the Mission Beach Amusement Center, phone Pacific Beach 681 or 671.

The national news weeklies will make pictures of the principal events of the week. All county towns, resorts, outlying business districts and business houses are urged to enter a float in the industrial, commercial and development parade, depicting the progress of their respective community, or some outstanding attraction such as bathing, boating, mountain life, industry, agriculture, community spirit, etc. Organizations or towns contemplating entries are asked to get in touch with the San Diego Chamber of Commerce.

TALENTED SINGER

ADDED TO FINE PROGRAM AT

GRANADA THEATRE, JA JOLLA

For the first week in August an exceptionally strong list of attractions has been arranged by Manager Ralph Sunderhauf for the patrons of the Granada Theatre at La Jolla. As a grand wind-up for July an excellent screen presentation of Rex Beach's great story, entitled "The Barrier," will be presented matinee and night. And there will be comedy, scenic and review films for good measure.

On Sunday and Monday, ushering in August, the one and only Julian Eltinge will be in the stellar role of "Madame Behave," and an extra special, the talented San Diego singer, Walter Ringling, will render his best selections. The splendid double bill should pack the Granada both nights. Go early for a good seat.

"Brown of Harvard," with Jack Pickford, Mary Bryant and William Haines, is the mid-week feature for Tuesday and Wednesday and there's not a dull moment from the happy first entrance to the jolly finish.

A comedy and fable are added. The week-end bill on Thursday and Friday brings the famous H. B. Warner in a wonderful production of "Silence," with extra good comedy added.

MOOSE PICNIC

San Diego Lodge, No. 508, Loyal Order of Moose, held a most enjoyable picnic last Wednesday at Mission Beach. The program included a supper on the beach, north of the Mission Beach ballroom. A large number of Moose and their families were in attendance.

O. B. BOY SCOUTS TROOP

CALIFORNIA NEWS BRIEFS

In this day of modern motive methods, when the smell of gasoline pervades all California, it is unusual to see a giant combined harvester of the older type, using a 28-horse team as propelling power. The big harvester on the R. P. Stewart grain ranch at Beaumont, Riverside county, is thought to be the only one south of the Tehachapi still using horses for motive power. The only available driver in Beaumont is Tony Baca, 19-year-old boy who handles the twenty-eight horses with reins to the lead pair, from his high perch projecting well over the team from the harvester. The harvester uses a crew of five men, and cuts, threshes and sacks the grain at the rate of about sixty acres in a nine-hour day, resulting in close to 700 sacks of grain per day.

Wanted! Fifty first class eagles to donate feathers to clothe the Yosemite Indian tribe. The Yosemite redmen have worn out the feathered finery of their forefathers and are now looking for more eagles. They related their troubles to Chief Ranger F. S. Townsley, who is expected to bring home the "feathery bacon." Townsley thinks the task a difficult one, so he's asking for help. "Used to be eagles everywhere," said Chief Ungwah-too-tah, head of the tribe in addressing his appeal to Townsley. "Now, plenty white people," he continued, "no eagles, no real Indian clothes for redmen. Must have eagle feathers quick—get 'em ready for tribal dance last two days, July."

An expenditure of $3,000,000 must be made from the funds of the California treasury during the next two years as the state government's contribution toward the well being of dependent children. Outlining the little known work of the state and the county governments in caring for thousands of waifs made public charges by force of circumstances, Mrs. Amy Steinhart Braden, head of the state children's aid bureau and secretary of the state department of public welfare, set this sum as a positive requirement of the coming biennium in helping to maintain the orphans of California, the half-orphans, the abandoned children and the children of incapacitated parents.

Lantern in hand, Joe Rodriguez, White road rancher, near San Jose, undertook to fill the gas tank of his tractor from a 100-gallon drum. He ran for a sack to smother the blaze he saw envelop the lantern, and got away just in time to see the top of the gasoline drum rise a hundred feet in the air with a terrific explosion. A moment later a second drum of gasoline shot its bolt, and shortly afterward Rodriguez and his partner Cintas, were checking up losses of building, equipment and stock, which ran well over $10,000.

An unusual apple pest has been reported on the J. R. Talbot ranch at Graton, Sonoma county. The apples on the trees appear to be bruised and on being cut open are found to contain dry rot near the surface. The apples have been sun scaled, due to some climatic condition, combined with probable damage from insects or cultivator to the roots of the apple tree, according to County Horticultural Commissioner O. R. Bremner.

"The idea held by most people that the poison methods used by the federal and state departments of agriculture in the control of predatory animals is cleaning out the fur bearers is wrong," says R. K. Stewart, of the U. S. Biological Survey. "There is a greater mortality among fur bearers in trapping than in poisoning. When small fur bearers get in the coyote traps, they are injured so badly that it becomes necessary usually to kill them."

Los Angeles manufacturers during the first 6 months this year produced goods at an annual value rate of more than $1,300,000. The six months' output of 1926 shows a $25,000,000 gain compared to the same period in 1925 and the volume ranks the metropolitan district as seventh among the nation's largest industrial centers, according to figures made public by the Los Angeles chamber of commerce.

Restoration of the Forbestown hotel, built in the fifties and known as an old landmark in the Oroville district, has been completed. The old time barroom has been remodeled and converted into a ball room. The hotel was originally built by Mrs. Elizabeth Garton in 1839, and saw many mining day parties. Forbestown was once the site of the richest quartz gold mines in this territory.

Farm Adviser C. M. Conner of Tulare county says that the soil augur is becoming an indispensable tool on farms nowadays. With the coming of the dry season it should be used consistently to enable growers to know how much water to apply, he declares, and he adds that a prospective land buyer also should use the augur to determine what is under the surface and to secure soil samples.

An interesting booklet for the farmer who is interested in the business side of his profession is Bulletin 403 of the University of California's college of agriculture, entitled Farm-Accounting associations. It is by Edwin C. Voorheis and deals at length with systems of farm accounting.

The Hearst Cannery at Oroville, formerly the Virden Packing company's plant, began operations recently. The plant will work entirely with peaches this year. Between 300 and 500 men and women will be employed.

Dr. J. P. Iverson, chief of the division of animal industry, California department of agriculture, was elected vice-president of the California Veterinary Medical association at the meeting of the association in Los Angeles.

With the awarding of contracts for construction of the one-story Riverdale Grammar school, announcement was made by the school officials that work on the structure will be started immediately and rushed to completion.

With the completion of the new municipal storage reservoir, at Ontario, which it is hoped to have ready for use by the latter part of August the danger of a water shortage will be entirely eliminated for that section.

Fifty-eight students were disqualified for readmission to Stanford university because of scholarship deficiencies last quarter. Of these 16 were first year students. Fifty-nine other freshmen were placed on probation.

The 1927 state legislature will be called upon by California farmers and shippers to pass a bill amending, codifying and improving the fruit and vegetable standardization act, it was announced by agricultural leaders in Sacramento.

The Ventura County Ice and Milk company, which has a creamery at Oxnard has signed a contract with agents of the Federal government for supplying about two and a half tons of milk a day to the Soldiers' Home at Sawtelle.

Farm Adviser V. F. Blanchard of Ventura county announces the appointment of Sydney A. Anderson of Los Angeles as his assistant in extension service and farm bureau work. Mr. Anderson has for the past two years been secretary of the Los Angeles county farm bureau.

Among the water permits granted during last month by the state division of water rights were three to the Feather River Power company calling for an expenditure of $7,700,000. This company is now doing construction work on a huge hydro-electric project in the watershed of the North Fork of the Feather river.

Speaking to the point of successful farm accounting, Farm Adviser C. M. Conner of Tulare county has just pointed out that the work of his unit at Visalia, has been most successful during the past year and added interest indicates that it may well be pressed again during the coming fiscal period, which will be done.

A flock of young ducks of pure wild Mallard strain, paddling around constantly in their domestic quarters on Dillonwood ranch, at Milo, Tulare county, adds another chapter, this season, to the unique and interesting history of the wild duck as he adapts himself to an environment foreign to his natural setting and instincts.

Sequoia National Park, first national playground to be created in California, is to be greatly enlarged and will be known as Roosevelt Sequoia National Park. Virtual assurance of the two changes was given when the United States senate, without opposition, passed a bill so providing, according to dispatches from Washington.

Taken by themselves, the 65,944 arrests for motor vehicle law violations in California during the last year constitute an alarming figure. But statistics on auto mileage, compiled by the State Motor Vehicle department for the same period, disclose that there were approximately 170,500 miles of motor travel in the state for every arrest.

Fertilizer shipments and orders have been heavier this summer in Tulare county than experienced in a number of years, it is reported by men interested in the trucking business or in the sale of commercial fertilizer material. The fertilizer is moving in great shipments and truck loads into the orange groves to the foothills on the eastern slopes of the Sierras where it will be spread about later in the fall after the hot weather has ended.

The average cow is very conservative in the way of outer adornment—a bell around her neck, perhaps, but nothing more. She wears all the adornments known to modern flapperdom, however, on the inside. That doesn't sound possible, but you can ask Dr. J. P. Iverson, chief of the state division of animal industry, if you don't believe it. Postmortem examinations of the most conservative cow during the last year, says Dr. Iverson, have revealed rings, bracelets, beads, coins and hairpins. And it is found that some cows even dine on nails.

HILL GUNMEN WHO SHOT UP COURT GIVEN FREEDOM

Release of Two Convicts in Virginia Recalls Tragic Battle.

Richmond, Va.—Prison doors have opened for the last members of a desperate mountain clan which shocked the world, in 1912, when it shot up the courtroom at Hillsville, Carroll county, Va., killing the judge, the state's attorney, and the sheriff and a juror.

Wesley Edwards and Sidna Allen, members of the clan, have just been pardoned by Governor Byrd.

Politics in Feud. The Edwards and Allen families were Democrats. The Republicans in control of county politics were their deadly enemies. Time and again the Allen and Edwards families charged that their foes were persecuting them through arrests for petty offenses and raids on their homes.

Shot Up the Courtroom.

The feud reached a climax when Floyd Allen, one of the leaders of the clan, forcibly freed two of his nephews who had been arrested. Allen was arrested and brought to trial. He was convicted and sentenced to spend a year in prison.

"I won't go!" These words from Allen started the bloody battle. When the smoke cleared away three were dead, two were dying, and several were wounded. The Allen and Edwards feudists were unharmed, except for Floyd Allen, who was wounded in the body. Six of them were tried for murder after armed posses captured them.

Two Later Freed. Floyd Allen and his son, Claude, died in the electric chair. Four others of the clan were sentenced to prison.

Four years ago, however, friends of the Allen and Edwards families made an investigation. They pointed to the fact that sentiment had changed and that, anyway, it never was proved who started the fight. Two of the prisoners, Sidna Edwards and Friel Allen, were freed.

The other two, Sidna Allen and Wesley Edwards, remained in prison until freed by Governor Byrd. And then ended the Hillsville tragedy.

Postman Elated as Cal Frees Him of War Strain

New York—"I feel just as if I'd been born again," said Letter Carrier William A. Hock of Newark. Hock was discharged from the postal service for utterances alleged to be disloyal to America, and after eight years of pleading that the discharge was due to war-time hysteria, he has just been reinstated by executive order of President Coolidge.

Hock stretched his toes in comfortable big felt slippers. He gazed proudly at the new uniform hanging beside him and his big chest heaved a happy sigh which stretched his undershirt almost to the splitting point. He had just finished his second day of letter carrying in eight years. "I feel ten years younger," said Hock. "It was awful having that stigma on me and I was just about hunched. It killed by old mother, she died about a year later."

Hunter Knocked Down by Grizzly Kills Attacker

Cody, Wyo.—Knocked 20 feet by the paw of an enraged grizzly bear that he had previously wounded, Vern Spencer of Cody "came up shooting" and killed the animal.

Accompanied by another hunter, Spencer was trailing the animal after shots from his rifle had wounded the grizzly. As Spencer cornered the bear, it rushed him, striking him a glancing blow with its paw that hurled Spencer 20 feet. He managed to regain his feet before the grizzly reached him and dropped it in its tracks as the animal made a second wild rush for him.

RADIO

Diagram of Five-Tube, One-Control Radio-Frequency Set, Which Employs Two Stages of R. F. With Positive Control of Oscillations.

By JAMES E. CARTER

In the New York Herald-Tribune. The radio-buying public has reached certain definite conclusions about what makes up a good radio receiver. These conclusions, in practical form, are embodied in most really successful manufactured sets of today. Some receivers have greater perfection than others. Some are of better design and construction. A few are outstanding in achievement.

A good set, first of all, whether it be home-made or factory-built, must be of correct design. The home constructor who is contemplating the building of a receiving set is naturally desirous of obtaining the utmost in the way of performance and is keenly alert to improvements in the successful manufactured set.

The first point of importance to the home set builder will be the type of circuit to use. It is needless to say that the day of the regenerative tickler feed-back type of receiver without radio-frequency amplification before the detector is over.

There remains the straight radio-frequency circuit, with positive controlled oscillation, which is probably the easiest all-around highly efficient circuit to construct.

Volume and Distance.

For the set builder who is situated fifty or more miles from a broadcast station two stages of tuned radio-frequency amplification, followed by a detector and two or three stages of audio amplification, will give ample satisfaction in the way of volume and distance. Where the user is located within 50 miles of a strong broadcast station three stages of tuned radio-frequency amplification is necessary to work distant stations as near as 20 kilocycles either above or below the near-by station.

In the accompanying diagram the five-tube radio receiver to be described in this article is shown. This set employs two stages of transformer coupled tuned radio-frequency amplification, a non-regenerative detector and two stages of transformer coupled audio-frequency amplification. An examination of this diagram will show that there is nothing unusual in the wiring of the circuit, the chief point of interest being the way in which one-control tuning is accomplished. A triple condenser is used to tune the secondary coils of the three radio-frequency transformers, all of which are identical in construction, and a small adjustable fixed compensating capacitor is connected in shunt with each of the three units of the condenser to compensate for the variation in the capacity of the wiring of each of the circuits. Also a variable antenna compensating condenser is connected in shunt with the unit of the condenser tuning the secondary of the antenna coupler. This has been found necessary to make possible efficient operation with any type of antenna. Another feature which makes the set more flexible is the small fixed condenser, which may be placed in series with the antenna. When this condenser is in use the receiver is more selective and may be operated from a large antenna without experiencing interference.

The Parts Needed.

The following is a list of apparatus actually employed in the construction of this receiver:

- One three-gang Perlez condenser (each section .00025 mfd.).
- Three radio-frequency transformers matched for use with the condenser (Perlez or home-made).
- Two Thoradson audio-frequency transformers.
- One Hammarlund compensating condenser (.50 mfd.).
- One 500,000-ohm Centralab variable resistance.
- One Centralab modulator (optional).
- Five Benjamin sockets.
- Two Dubilier .00025 mfd. fixed condensers.
- One Dubilier .001 mfd. fixed condenser.
- Two Dubilier 1 mfd. fixed condensers.
- One 5 meg. Durham grid leak.
- One 6-ohm rheostat.
- One Carter battery switch.
- Eleven Eby binding posts.
- One panel 23 1/2 x 9 x 3-16 inches.
- One panel 10 1/2 x 4 1/2 x 3-16 inches.
- Two panels 3 1/2 x 2 1/2 x 3-16 inches.
- One baseboard 23 1/2 x 9 1/2 inches.

The method employed to control the volume of this receiver eliminates the necessity of connecting jacks in the output of each stage of amplification.

Real Mushroom Town

Marichukaddi, or Pearl Town, near Ceylon, holds the record probably, for "mushroom towns." The greater part of the year its population consists of a few natives living in straw huts. A day before the pearl fishery starts, it has, as if by magic, become a busy town of some 30,000 or 40,000, says the Boston Post. Cadjan huts line the "streets" displaying wares of all types; clothing, umbrellas, jewelry, foodstuffs and household utensils. There is a hospital, a police station and a court house there as well. All this prosperity lasts only as long as the pearl fishery is being conducted. A day or two after it is over, like a figment of a dream, the town disappears and only its few natives are left.

Galli-Curci Swayed by the Seer of Sweden

Prima Donna Gives Wonderful Interpretation of the Writings of Emanuel Swedenborg—

HENRY FORD'S Dearborn Independent publishes a remarkable article on Galli-Curci and Emanuel Swedenborg, by Clarence W. Barron of the Wall Street Journal, the world famous financial authority.

Mr. Barron declares that Galli-Curci has the most wonderful brain he has ever met or heard of in a woman, although she is much more "a true woman with a life and soul of affection for all that is ennobling and uplifting in the family, and in color, form, and music."

Mr. Barron is chairman of the Rotch Trustee, who acting under the will of Lydia S. Rotch of New Bedford, Mass., began in 1872 a modern translation of the Theological Works which Emanuel Swedenborg wrote and published in the Latin tongue, and deposited in the libraries of the world 150 years ago.

This work was completed and published by the Houghton Mifflin Co. in 32 volumes in 1907.

About three years ago there appeared in a Cleveland paper a paragraph that among her other accomplishments Galli-Curci had read all the Theological Writings of Emanuel Swedenborg. The claim seemed so absurd to Mr. Barron that he thought it might be easily punctured by a simple inquiry as to the edition.

The title "The Greater Work Than Ever" To Mr. Barron's direct inquiry Madame Galli-Curci promptly replied: "Yes, I have read in the past year the complete Swedenborg Works, in fact it is the Rotch Edition of the Houghton Mifflin Co. that I have."

"I can say certainly that the Bible to me is a greater work than it was before."

Mr. Barron says: "My astonishment was intensified. Familiar over many years with Swedenborg's general theological writings, I had set out to read the entire thirty-two volumes preparatory to an advertising campaign for the sale of this edition. Reading a few pages each day I finished my self-imposed task in fourteen years. I shall probably finish a second reading, at my present rate of progress, in perhaps ten years. Was it possible that a woman with no previous knowledge or relation to these books had really intelligently read them within a year?"

Swedenborg's Writings

Mr. Barron continues: "As an economist writing state papers on weights, measures, coinages and currencies, Swedenborg is easily comprehended. As an engineer transporting ships overland he is easily visualized. As a government official in the great mining industry of Sweden, writing practical books on mining and smelting, declared to be the foundation of modern metallurgy, he is of interest in the encyclopedia of scientific history. As the writer of volumes—original studies in search for the human soul—he is not without human interest."

"But when one comes to the realm of the unseen, where there is neither time nor space upon which to rest mental conceptions, few may enter into the fullness of the revelation which has come into the libraries of the world through Emanuel Swedenborg."

"Think of twenty modern-sized volumes, originally written in the Latin tongue and unfolding from the Hebrew of 'Genesis' and 'Exodus' the internal or spiritual sense that lies beneath the letter. Annex a dozen more similar volumes that not only expound every picture set forth in the book of 'Revelation' as conveyor of a tremendous truth of universal application throughout invisible degrees of creation and life, but also illumine all the problems of sex as presented throughout the universe from the union of the love and wisdom in the divine down to sex crystallization in the mineral kingdom; include the deepest of all works ever written entitled, in the original Latin, 'Angelic Wisdom Concerning the Divine Love and the Divine Wisdom.'"

Then answer to yourself the number of years that ought to be required to master these thirty-two volumes."

Mean More Than Any Other Books

Mr. Barron, still credulous, continued his correspondence with Madame Galli-Curci for some months. He learned that soon after she lost her dear mother she had sought the Writings of Swedenborg in a desire to know more about the other world whence her mother had gone. She spent the entire summer vacation studying Swedenborg's Works, and declared: "They have meant, and mean more to me than anything else I have ever read."

When Galli-Curci returned from California, Mr. Barron motored up into the Catskills to her beautiful Italian palace, and in an afternoon with her and her husband, Mr. Homer Samuels, he was convinced that Galli-Curci had read and devoured Swedenborg in a briefer period than anybody had ever done before.

He says of this interview: "Hours flew like minutes. I wasn't the questioner, Mr. and Mrs. Samuels were at me with the sharpest and deepest questions. They seemed in perfect harmony mentally and spiritually, as in their work in music."

Wanted to Learn

"She wanted to know about the 'Grand Man'. I told her it would be easier to comprehend it if she would forego the idea of time and space, consider, as Swedenborg says in 'Apocalypse Explained', that every city in the heavens connects some organ of the human body helps to sustain it. Therefore heavens have the organization of 'Grand Man', but we need not think of it as a shape or figure."

"Yes," exclaimed her husband, "I see it; it is organization." I explained, also, how the 'Psalms' likewise connected with every society of the heavens, and how the world within and without was knit together in one grand poem and song of creation, man in the image of his Maker and knit into Him through the heavens, from which he has life in every organ of his body."

Swedenborg's 32 Volumes Read in a Single Summer

"Now I understand," she said, and asked me for explanation of other things. Her intelligent questions, as well as her statements, left no manner of doubt that Galli-Curci had performed the stupendous feat of reading the thirty-two volumes of Swedenborg in a single summer season. She declared 'Heaven and Hell' a very attractive and popular title and concerns that about which people are most eager to know; but it is not one of Swedenborg's great works; although it makes a good popular and introductory work."

A Help in Her Work

Galli-Curci understands the writings of Swedenborg even better than theologians, because she puts them into practice in the broadest life of loving helpfulness.

She said that Swedenborg had helped her in her work. She had no longer to think of herself but of her audiences, and let the music flow through her; regard herself just a medium for life to pour through. She felt with and for her audiences, and singing was no effort for her.

All Fear Vanishes

"The more you do—the more you give forth—the more life and energy is poured into you, and you are stronger and not weaker for the doing, the working and the singing. I always feel stronger; I am not exhausted at all by my singing. Swedenborg shows the reason and how life comes in as you pour it forth usefully to others. You don't have to try or worry or fret. You know it is not you but that it is just being done through you."

Speaking further of the help Swedenborg had been to her in her work she said: "One gets so much more confidence. The other world and the one life, that comprehends all life, becomes reality and all fear and worry vanish."

WEST TO WITNESS

TRANSMISSION OF PHOTOS

BY RADIO SERVICE

The first public demonstration on the Pacific coast of radio's latest marvel, the transmission of photography, is to be a feature attraction of the third annual Pacific Radio Exposition to be held at San Francisco, August 21st to 28th.

The instrument, known as the Radio Pictograph, is one of only four in service in the world. The others are in Honolulu, New York and London. This form of radio service has only been in operation for a few weeks, but during that time has made remarkable strides in photographic transmission of not only portraits and scenes but of checks, signatures, code and other facsimile documents.

The transmission of the average photograph requires about forty minutes and arrangements are being made that the actual reproduction may be viewed by visitors to the exposition.

BALBOA THEATER

"A love comedy of errors."
This is the substance of Pola Negri's latest Paramount starring picture, "Good and Naughty," which arrives at the Balboa Theatre for three days commencing Sunday.

If you have ever been in love with somebody who was in love with somebody else, who in turn was in love with another, and if you have gotten all tangled up in the meshes of Cupid's mistakes, you will profit by—and laugh at—this film.

The picture was directed by that ace of comedy-drama producers, Malcolm St. Clair, and includes in the featured cast Tom Moore and Ford Sterling.

Trixie Friganza, the incomparable Grand Duchess of Comedy, headlines the Fanchon and Marco "Comic Supplement Idea," coming to Balboa Theatre for three days, commencing Sunday.

Small of stature, but big as a dancer, Dewey Barto returns to Balboa for a royal welcome. Dewey "stops every show" and is one of the stellar attractions wherever he appears. With George Mann, they create a lot of laughs with their "Mutt and Jeff" interpretation. "Hans and Fritz" will be represented by the O'Rourke Electric Duo, "Tillie the Toiler," by Mary Jane Lewis and "Spark Plug" by Dolores Lopez and Mary Jane. "Jiggs" and "Barney Google" also defend their titles along with "The Skipper of the Toonerville Trolley."

For the following four days of the week, in conjunction with the showing of "The Wise Guy," with Mary Aster, James Kirkwood and Betty Compson, Fanchon and Marco will present an animated "Specialty Idea," offering a number of high class entertainers in vod-bits, musical novelties and the newest dances.

George Stolberg and his Greater Band furnish a glorious manifestation of musical hits with additional embellishments to the screen and stage presentations.

The West Coast Pictorial News-Reel and other short reels chosen for their excellence furnish the balance of the entertainment.

CABRILLO THEATER

If you like your screen drama stark and real but lightened here and there with those intimate humorous and subtle touches of which only William de Mille is capable, you will enjoy "The Runaway," which opens at Cabrillo Theatre Saturday.

The Paramount Producer-director selected material different from that which ordinarily attracts him when he chose "The Runaway." It was a fortunate choice and shows four players in roles which will make each of them more firmly situated on the ladder of popularity. Clara Bow, Warner Baxter, George Bancroft and William Powell all give sterling performances.

Miss Bow's characterization might be termed "the metamorphosis of a flapper" for she changes from a wild, thoughtless movie actress into a loyal, sincere girl-woman who stands ready to sacrifice her life for a friend. Warner Baxter is also seen in a new role, that of a young Kentucky mountaineer who has his own way of going after what he wants.

De Mille has handled the triangle situation in "The Runaway" with remarkable skill and makes it impossible to know before the last few minutes of the picture whether Miss Bow will choose the mountaineer, Baxter, or the wealthy young New Yorker, William Powell.

"The Runaway" was prepared for filming by Albert Shelby LeVino from Charles Neville Buck's novel.

Raymond Godden will play a group of popular selections on the organ. Kinggrams and a good comedy complete the bill.

THE FAITH O' MEN

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

BE DEPENDABLE

IF YOU will look about you and note carefully the characteristics of the much-talked-about men and women who seem always to be in the glare of the spotlight, you will find that one of their strong traits is dependableness.

In many cases these people began life in lowly positions, hardly able at times to keep the wolf from the door.

They were beset by common trials and difficulties.

The roads they traveled were just as full of ruts and rocks as they are today. Disappointments came as they came now, singly, in pairs and in swarms, but the stout hearted kept moving ahead, showing their mettle and faith.

They made it manifest to the world that in fair weather or foul they were dependable.

When confronted by stern or humiliating duty, they accepted the challenge unafraid, unconquerable.

Benjamin Franklin, in his trying days, was sneered at while carrying home a loaf of bread. In later years the young woman who had made fun of him became his wife, possibly because she had repented, but more than likely for the reason that she had found a man in whom she could trust, and upon whom she could depend without a qualm of fear.

The dependable man is the successful man.

He refuses to sidestep the hard path or to shift his burden to another's shoulders. He does his share of work with happy heart and willing hands.

He controls his tongue when prompted to answer back with a snarl; he knows his weakness and strength, and is capable of taking care of his opportunity and his job. When put to the test he proves his worth.

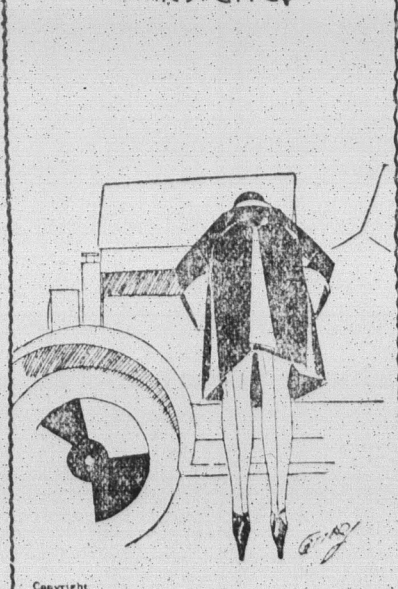

In a crisis he has courage to act on his own initiative.

Then he breaks loose, but with the same old earnestness and good sense, and makes a bee-line for the spotlight; which through all his trials he has kept in mind.

If you would have a proud place among the world's notable workers, rise with them to the eminence so often pictured by your imagination, and enjoy the pleasing sensation which comes to those who have done their best, you must first make yourself worthy of the honor by becoming dependable.

THE SMELL OF HARNESS

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

I DON'T deny we don't agree on what we don't like, what we do;

What seems to me perfumery May seem quite different to you. Now, there's a perfume past and gone I always liked, and that was this: The smell of harness hanging on A hook, a perfume that I miss.

The automobile's mighty nice, I must admit, in lots of ways; However nice, it has its price— I sort of miss the good old days The automobile's mighty fine To ride to town, or loads to haul And yet I miss one joy of mine, The smell of harness, after all

Now, I was raised—and who was not?— With cows and colts, with Don and Kit; And what's a lot of bolts you've got Besides a harness and a bit? There's something—what I cannot tell.

You maybe know just what I mean— They had a sort of honest smell That you don't get from gasoline. (© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

THE WHY OF SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

DOGS AND DEATH

IN LABRADOR and in New Orleans they say that when a dog is seen digging a particularly large hole in the ground it is a sign that you will soon hear of the death of a friend or relative. And in various localities between Labrador and New Orleans will be found a like superstition, sometimes slightly modified—as, for instance, in some places the dog must bury sticks in the hole he digs in order that the owner may have its full significance. The superstition as far as the digging by the dog of an unusually large hole is concerned is easily explained by homeopathic magic. The dog digs a grave, or rather, he digs an imitation grave, which, by sympathetic magic, causes a real grave to be dug—the natural philosophy of our respected ancestors, the cave-men. But there appears to be something further as the dog is evidently regarded as a proper agent for the death announcement and we find that in some localities it is believed that if you meet a dog in crossing a bridge you will hear of a death within twenty-four hours and in others there is a belief that if a dog rolls in the grass under your window you will soon hear of the death of a friend, acquaintance or relative. The lugubrious howling of a dog at night suggests wailing for the dead and to primitive man what was associated in appearance or suggestion was associated in fact. Those peculiar senses of the dog which enable him to realize the proximity of unseen animals—including man—gave him in primitive times his reputation as ghost-seer. To the ancient, migratory peoples—and all of them were so more or less—the soul after death must cross a river. Hence the significance of meeting a dog while crossing a stream. When the dog rolls under your window has he not "sensed" the disembodied spirit of the friend of whose death you will shortly hear and is trying to simulate his demise?

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

ANIMAL'S IDEA

"It's perfectly absurd," roared the lion. "Yes, it surely is absurd."

"It's utterly absurd," roared the lioness.

"It's too ridiculous for words," said the leopard.

"I think it is nonsense," said the panther.

"It's so silly," said the puma.

"It's the most foolish thing of which I have ever heard," said the tiger.

"I've an idea," said the lion, roaring.

"So have I," said the lioness, roaring, too.

"I believe I have one," said the leopard.

And one by one, the panther, the puma and the tiger each said that they had an idea, too.

"I wonder," roared the lion, "if we all have different ideas or if we have the same one."

"I wonder that,"

And that set all the animals to wondering if they each had a different idea or if each of them had thought of the same thing.

"The only way to find out is for each of us to give his or her idea," said the lioness.

"That's right," said the lion.

"That's so," said the leopard.

"That's the truth," said the panther.

"The only way," said the tiger.

"That's right," they all agreed, roaring and growling.

So they each gave his or her idea, and they each found that the idea was the same.

They had heard the zoo people say that the cost of food was going up and they had heard that everyone talked of the high cost of living, which meant it was hard to pay such big prices for meat and other things for meals.

"Well, each animal had an idea, as each had said, and each idea of all those animals was the same."

"Yes," said the lioness, "if they complain of the cost of feeding us at any time we can tell them we will leave their zoo and go out to hunt for ourselves."

"We don't have to pay for the food we can get. We hunt for it and we find it and we eat it, we do."

And she roared as she thought of it.

"Yes," said the panther, "it is senseless to talk of the high cost of food in the zoo when every one of us knows that we could go out and do our own marketing tomorrow—that is after a journey a little distance to where it was a bit wild and free—and then the prices and money wouldn't bother us."

And they all agreed that people were foolish who worried about such things!

"We will leave if they think we are an expense," said the lion.

"We don't care about staying if that is the way they feel about it," said the lioness.

"We'd rather go, anyway," she said.

"We would," said the leopard.

"Indeed we would," said the panther.

"I would, leave any time," said the puma.

"So would I," said the tiger.

So they all agreed that it was foolish of the zoo people to complain about how much their animal guests, cost them in food, when all the guests would be quite willing to leave.

If they were staying and showing what they were like to the visitors, and were letting others know about them and their ways so that they were becoming better informed about animals—then—all very well.

But they needn't complain about any high prices—for they were guests, many of them, who were not staying on completely and entirely of their own free will and accord!

That was what these animals thought.

SUMMER AFTERNOON GOWNS; NEW LINGERIE IS COLORFUL

EVERY once or twice in a while—and much oftener now than in the good old days of yore—a real artist in clothes appears and shows us what can be done with prevailing modes. It takes an artist to select those style notes, that, when they are put together, will produce a perfect harmony. Among the many details that add interest to styles, he knows which he may use, where to begin and where to leave off, when he assembles a new model, and how to give it a touch or so of his own.

An afternoon gown that sums up the modes of today with consummate skill, is pictured here. It is made of color range runs through peach, green, tea rose, lavender and yellow and a feature of the season is the combination of two colors in one garment.

In fabrics crepe de chine continues to hold the lead in silks and fine, firmly woven voile in cottons, but other thin silks are well represented and voile has rivals in fine batiste and nainsook. Undergarments reach the limit of sheerness in georgette and voile, which are used in both plain and printed varieties and afford a chance for the generous use of platings. Voile is a sturdy material and even georgette is less fragile than it looks. Besides the sheer beauty of flat crepe, in the color called June rose, and has a vest and lower sleeve sections of white georgette with a graceful jabot to break the severity of simple lines. Plaited godets, pointed at the hemline, are inserted in the front, back and sides of the skirt. The straight collar is extended into long ties—and these ends are the end of a story as delightful as any told by the season's modes. This model is adapted to any of the fashionable soft fabrics in plain colors.

Very flattering afternoon gowns are naturally also very popular. These are georgette or chiffon models in flowered patterns, worn over crepe de chine slips. They do not need elaboration, since the fabrics themselves are so decorative, but they are made interesting and varied by little details of finish, as flared apron fronts, these fabrics, the fact that they may be easily refitted. If tubbing causes them to fade, makes a strong appeal to women.

In handmade, tailored lingerie of crepe de chine, vari-colored floral motifs in dainty designs are embroidered at the top of chemise and gowns. Light colors are used in these embroideries and narrow ribbons for shoulder straps while triple straps are popular in the very narrow ribbons. Tucks and plaits are introduced in these tailored garments which are nearly always pale pink in color. Some white is shown in new models having applique designs in color embroidered in white, and white garments with pipings in a color are among the newest items.

In lace-trimmed lingerie, filet, val, alencon and net are used in edgings,

A Dainty Undergarment.

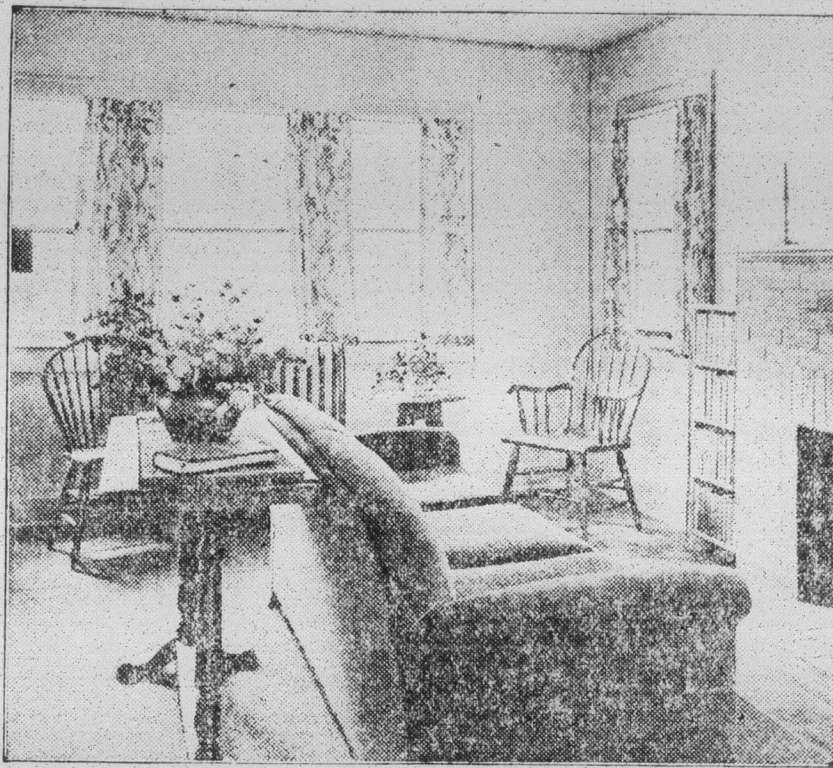

Jabots, scarf collars, cuff tabs, tiered skirts, vestees and cape attachments. Reversing the order of printed chiffon over plain slips, are gowns of printed silk veiled with long tunics of plain chiffon or georgette. Both plain and printed patterns in sheer fabrics are made up with delicate lace flouncings, and black lace, over black or flesh-colored foundations, is featured among the gossamer gowns for summer afternoons.

Daintiness in design, delicate colors and sheerness of fabrics, are characteristics of lingerie, whatever the type or style it belongs to this season. Color is the factor of outstanding importance. It seems, since all-white has been supplanted in popular favor by pastel shades in silk and in sheer fine cotton materials. Beginning with pale pink the inserts and medallions. The more elaborate gowns have lace yokes extended into semi-sleeves over the shoulders, lace pockets and lace hemlines and are made of crepe de chine. Chemises of this material or of voile or georgette are shown with long molded bodices and short plaited skirts. Lace banding finishes the top and bottom and joins the bodice and skirt. Along with the return of handmade lingerie comes the high-necked and long-sleeved gown once more. These are made of cambrie and nainsook for the most part, but crepe de chine and albatross are also used and much attention is given to graceful designing and to the use of net, filet and Irish lace in their decoration.

CHOOSING CURTAINS FOR "BETTER HOMES"

Good Curtains of Flowered Cretonne for a Room With Plain Walls.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Choosing curtains for the house brings to mind fabrics of charming color and texture hanging in graceful folds. But it is not always easy to get just the effect the mind first pictured, and cost much be considered. To curtain the windows of even a five-room house, about 60 yards of material is needed, and curtains generally have to be renewed every few years.

As a help to homemakers, the United States Department of Agriculture makes suggestions about curtain fabrics and ways of hanging them. Curtains are an excellent means of furnishing up an old house, or are needed as the finishing touch to a new one.

In planning curtains remember that windows are put in houses in order to admit light and air. Make sure curtains as simple as effectiveness will permit. Elaborate curtains defeat the purpose of windows and are out of place in the average home.

Shape and Size of Window.

Look carefully at the shape and size of the windows and how they are placed in the walls. Picture the effect of curtains of various styles on those particular windows and how they will appear from the outside as well as the inside of the house. If there are lovely views from the windows, study how to keep them without sacrificing privacy and an attractive interior. An unattractive view may need to be screened by curtains, but beware of shutting out too much light.

Study the general style of your room. Curtains can help to make a room homelike and inviting or dignified and formal, depending on the kind of material used and how it is hung.

Glass curtains made of thin material and hung on a straight rod inside the casing close to the glass, soften and change the color of the light coming into the room, lend an air of privacy, and are a protection to side draperies. Glass curtains should be just long enough to escape the sill.

Side Draperies Useful.

Side draperies give a finished appearance to the window, are useful as shades if arranged to draw, and are a good means of adding color to the room and of modifying poor proportions. In small homes, side draperies that end on a line with the apron of the window are more suitable. If a more formal effect is desired, let them extend to the baseboard or an inch above the floor.

A valance used with or without draperies, carries the eye across the top, and has the effect of decreasing the height of room and window.

Before buying curtain material, get samples of the kinds that seem most suitable and see how they go with walls, woodwork, floor and furniture, by both day and artificial light. Strong light shining through curtain fabrics often brings out striking effects not suspected until put to this test. Excellent curtain materials can sometimes be found among the dress goods. Fabrics and colors that will clean well and withstand light, are the best bargain in the end. Examine also for defects in the weave that may show up when the curtains are hung.

With figured wall paper, choose plain-colored curtain material. If the walls and most of the furnishings are plain the curtains may be figured, but preferably with the background the same color or slightly deeper than the walls. With cream walls, for instance, a cretonne with soft tan background and figures that repeat the colors used elsewhere in the room might be suitable for living and dining rooms.

In selecting figured materials give preference to conventional designs that will stand the test of being looked at day after day.

PROPER FOOD FOR YOUNG CHILDREN

Essential Facts About Foods in Popular Discussion.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The time-worn question, "What shall we eat?" has been attacked from a new angle in a government bulletin written for junior homemakers. Miscellaneous Circular 49, "A Guide to Good Meals for the Junior Home-makers," recently published by the United States Department of Agriculture, approaches a group not previously appealed to in the literature of nutrition. The interest of younger children has for some time been attacked by food and health rhymes, by illustrations of animated milk bottles, grinning cereal bowls, and dancing egg cups. Adults have been encouraged through many publications, both popular and technical, to choose the right food for themselves and their offspring. But the adolescents at the pickle-eating, ice-cream-gorging stage have not until now had a government bulletin solely for themselves.

The authors, Ruth Van Deman and Caroline L. Hunt, are specialists in the bureau of home economics. They have presented the essential facts about foods in popular discussion. A novel introductory paragraph suggests that if all kinds of foods in the world were to be assembled in one market where people of all races came to buy, the combinations they chose would have similar food value though made up of very different foods. For instance, the Japanese might select fish, rice, certain legumes, soja sauce, bamboo sprouts, and persimmons, while the American chose meat, eggs, milk, bread, a variety of American fruits and vegetables, but each would have the makings of a well-balanced diet. The youthful readers are introduced to the term "calorie" in such a way that it can no longer hold any mystery for them. They are also advised to keep track of their weight, to drink at least a pint of milk a day, to include an abundance of vitamins and minerals (from the vegetable and fruit group), and to limit the quantity of sweets used.

The circular containing these valuable suggestions to home makers of the future may be had while the supply lasts by writing to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington D. C.

Merits of Soft Custard and Cream Are Outlined

Some people always make a soft custard for pudding sauce instead of using cream. As to the relative merits of soft custard and cream used in this way, the United States Department of Agriculture makes the following explanation: Soft custard, for which the proportions are a pint of milk, the yolks of three eggs, one-quarter cupful sugar, one-eighth teaspoonful salt, and any desired flavoring, is very much like ordinary cream in composition except in the matter of iron. Of that important element a given amount of custard contains three or four times as much iron as the same amount of cream. It is to be recommended, therefore, for those who, specially need iron. Children who get most of their protein from milk are likely to be more in need of iron than of calcium. Adults, on the other hand, who get most of their protein from meat are likely to need calcium more than iron. In general, therefore, the soft custard is better for children, and cream just as good or better for grownups. Since cream differs in price very little with the season, the economy involved in using soft custard depends chiefly on the price of eggs.

Do Not Kill Germs

Septic tanks do not kill disease germs. Some of the harmful germs in sewage die during their passage through a tank, but a septic tank has no more power of killing germs than does an ordinary barrel, box, or cistern. A portion of the solids in the sewage decompose or rot, but the escaping liquid is still full and dangerous.

Serious Fire Risk

Oil cloths used in polishing floors and woodwork are a serious fire risk. Cloths moistened with linseed oil are especially liable to spontaneous combustion, and serious fires have resulted from this cause. They should be either destroyed immediately after use or kept in a tightly-covered fire-proof container.

Preserve Pie Crust

To keep the undercrust of a custard pie from raising up in bubbles pre-bake it before putting in the custard mixture, and before you put the crust in the oven prick it in several places with a fork. This will let the steam out and prevent the crust from rising up in bubbles.

Honor Thomas Moore as Patriot and Poet

County Wexford Historical society in Ireland has just erected a tablet on the house in which lived the mother of Thomas Moore, the national poet, and the mayor and corporation of the city associated themselves with the tribute. Moore's mother was Anastasia Codd, and her husband, John Moore, came from Kerry.

"Opinions on Moore have differed, and will continue to differ to the end," said Rev. T. Byrne. "Some hailed the poet as a national idol, while others denounced him as a cockney. In the poet's life were incidents which did not appeal to the Irish patriot. He spent most of his time in England, and was the idol of its aristocratic circles. But under his gay and frivolous nature he had the heart of an Irish patriot. He was an intimate friend of Robert Emmet, and wrote for the Republican organ, the Press."

The Knee, Plus

Bishop Alma White, founder of the Pillar of Fire church and of Alma college, said on the President Harding:

"Men are responsible for the shocking fashions of the day. Men create these fashions, and fathers actually admire them on their innocent daughters."

"A pretty girl came on deck the other morning in a very smart white silk skirt."

"Isn't that skirt rather—er—ultra?" her father said.

"She spun round on her heel, and the misguided man laughed and added:

"Yes, it's knee plus ultra."

Said It With Flowers

In one big American city is a park with a florist, whose favorite stunt is to welcome conventions in beautiful floral letters of foliage plants grown in boxes and transplanted when needed. When a big Christian Endeavor convention was held there in 1899 the delegates were touched by a beautiful floral welcome. "Here," said one, "is a city with a soul." Had they passed by the next day they would have been horrified to read, "Welcome, Brewers of America."—Capper's Weekly.

ORGANIZATIONS AND MOTHERS BOTH AGREE

Health of School Girls Important

The Girl Scouts and Camp Fire Girls are two national organizations, working side by side in the cause of healthy, happy, intelligent womanhood; training the minds of eager girls for greater services, training their bodies for the destiny that shall be theirs.

All honor to them! Wise mothers like Mrs. Alice Louthan urge their daughters in their early teens to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Louthan says—"I gave my fifteen-year old girl Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it did her a wonderful lot of good. She was out of school for four months. I read the advertisements of the Vegetable Compound, and since she has taken it she has improved and has gone back to school. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to other mothers with girls who are not as strong as they should be."

Big Building Boom

The recent building boom which has been in progress in all sections of the country has been the cause of razing many an old building to make way for a newer, larger and more beautiful one. Increases in the value of real estate have made it profitable to remove old buildings so that new ones, planned for increased revenue, might be erected.
